- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with your hands, especially if they have not been recently sanitized.
- Maintain social distancing and mask use, especially in enclosed workplaces with other employees present.
- Maintain sanitized work areas and request cleaning supplies before they run out.
- Get rest and keep hydrated.
- Consider applicable seasonal vaccines, if/as available.
- Inform your supervisor if you are ill and do not report to work until better and authorized.

Sincerely,

Safety Corner

Patrol Safety: Patrols are a very vital part of the officer's duties so ensuring the officer can safely perform them is very important.

Therefore, RMI wishes to remind all officers of the following safety precautions:

- Remember to stop, look, and listen before initiating a new patrol.

Stop before entering the area for a survey for security and safety issues.

Look for anything out of the ordinary before, during and even upon termination of the patrol.

Listen for unusual noises or other activity in the area that may need further investigation.

- Whether on a driving or foot patrol, move to a safe location to take a phone or radio call.
- Ensure to have sufficient lighting while on patrol.

Do not drive around with vehicle headlights off at night and do not patrol a building at night with the lights out, in order to be stealthy.

Sincerely,

Richard Aparicio
